Brian Erickson
TXGA President
March 2021 ~ March 2025

Challenge 2025 marks my official retirement from the TXGA Board after an incredible 8-year journey. I served first as the NTX Regional Representative for four years and then as President for another four, and what a ride it has been!

When I first ventured into geocaching, I was a solo player—focused on the hunt and not particularly interested in the social side of things. That all changed when I was introduced to Texas Challenge. Despite the cold and rainy day, I was completely hooked. I began attending local events and connected with fellow cachers in the DFW Metroplex. Then, a call from De Vickery asking me to represent NTX on the TXGA Board opened up an entirely new chapter—one filled with friendship and community, aspects of the game I never expected to embrace so fully.

Reflecting on my caching career, I treasure not only the memorable caches and adventures but, most of all, the enduring friendships forged along the way—all thanks to TXGA. The past 8 years have truly been a labor of love. I am deeply grateful to the TXGA Board, our members, and all the friends who have helped make our organization stronger and more vibrant. Your support has been instrumental in our shared journey.

I am proud of what we have accomplished together:

We've built a solid financial foundation to support future efforts.

- Our membership roster remains as strong as ever.
- Events like Challenge and RoundUp continue to draw in the Texas caching community and beyond.
- We continue to expand our activities to include initiatives such as Texas 2-Step, the TXGA Newsletter, and CITO Across Texas.

As I hang up the Viking hat, I am excited for the future of TXGA. Rest assured, I'm not going anywhere—I will continue to support and celebrate the growth and success of geocaching and TXGA in Texas for years to come.

Ride safe - until we cache together again!

MISSION STATEMENT

The Texas Geocaching Association (TXGA) is a volunteer organization. We strive to be the foremost advocate for Geocaching in Texas and to promote the family-oriented activity of geocaching through a central website, social media, workshops, events and information displays, while encouraging responsible stewardship of public lands. TXGA is committed to celebrating the diversity of our membership in all regions of Texas and beyond. From finders to hiders, veteran to novice geocachers, our differences allow us to serve and support each other while building a dynamic geocaching environment in Texas and the greater community.

Story Board

East Texas Rep – K13 - Kevin Boatman

One of the things I love most about Geocaching is that it doesn't require planning to have a great adventure. One of mine started with a coin flip. It involved high altitudes, meeting geocachers from all over the country, being awakened by the local police at 3am, running up over 2,300 miles on the rented car, all while visiting 4 other states.

In early July of 2016, I was working in Midland and had the idea of going to Guadalupe Peak and on to El Paso for the holiday weekend of the Fourth of July. A couple weeks earlier, I had looked at the geocaching website for caching opportunities further out west, and saw something about GeoWoodstock in Denver. The idea of going to my first Geocaching Mega Event was interesting, but I dismissed it.

I had already rented a car and packed for some light camping on Thursday, so when I finished at the courthouse in Pecos, I was ready for adventure. When I got in the car, the idea of GeoWoodstock came back. Hmmm. I flipped a coin, heads: El Paso, tails: Denver. The quarter showed I was heading North instead of West. GeoWoodstock was now my destination.

I made it to Roswell before it was time to sleep. Roswell had their "Alien Festival" on Saturday, so I was lucky to find a motel room. I checked the phone app for geocaches along my route toward Denver. The next morning, I grabbed a couple local caches, then headed for an event atop Pikes Peak.

After a few caches and a few hundred miles, I arrived at Pikes Peak just in time to sign the log for the event. After finding all the available caches nearby, I amassed seven different cache types above 14,000 feet elevation. On the way down, I stopped for a cache and met some geocachers from Nebraska.

When I got back down to the park entry, I helped them hook to their camper, and we parted ways for the evening. I figured I would find a hotel near the Woodstock location. For most of the way from Colorado Springs to Denver I tried to find a hotel near my destination. LOL! (Note to self: impromptu excursions on major holiday weekends are not advisable if you want a hotel.)

With the lack of hotel availability, I decided to sleep in the car. A Sports Authority parking lot called out to me. Around 2:30 am, I was awakened by a loud alarm in the building. I look around, but didn't see any other vehicles, so I wasn't concerned. Just as I got back to sleep, the police came knocking on my window. They had me get out, prove my identity and explain my presence. About thirty minutes later, they left me alone and I tried to get back to sleep.

Around daybreak, I headed over to GeoWoodstock and got in line to park. While waiting, I walked around talking to others and finding a few geocaches before they finally opened the gates to the parking lot. I had a fun day at the event, meeting folks from all over the place, and finding some of the various caches placed in the Park. I even found one of the no-longer-allowed Traveling Caches, some of the first iteration of Lab Caches, and saw the OCB (Original Can of Beans). It was a fun day.

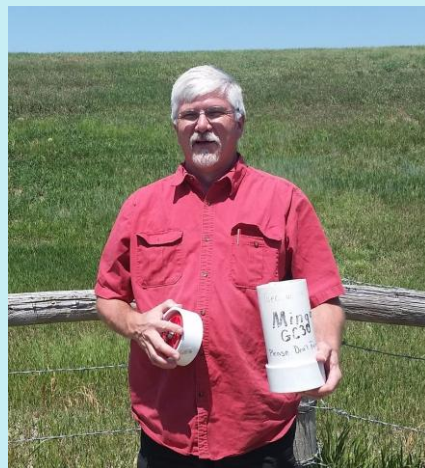

I caught up with my Nebraska friends from Pikes Peak, and we headed for a tree-climb cache across Denver. After that fun, we said goodbyes, and I headed toward Mingo. I made it to Limon, Colorado and stopped for the night.

Monday morning took me to Mingo, then it was a right turn, South toward Midland, and a very long day of driving to get back home. The words from the America the Beautiful monument atop Pikes Peak played through my head. This Fourth of July weekend, I had been upon the purple mountains majesty and had driven through amber waves of grain.

When I returned the rental car, the counter agent at the rental office was quite surprised to see that I had driven over 2,300 miles in four days. I told her it would have only been about 700, except for the flip of a coin.

I have other such tales to tell, like the trip to Ft. Jackson, South Carolina when I found some tough old caches - Octopus Garden, Lake Lanier, LPS001, Lara's Tomb and a few others – all while on a knee scooter due to recovering from a cut Achilles tendon, or my 15-state journey to the Indy 500 last year.

I know I will have more adventures. I hope you get out there for adventures of your own, whether planned or on a whim. I'll wager your odds of a great time are better than a coin flip.

Texas, thanks especially to Dinosaur Valley, is renowned for its many fossils and dinosaur tracks, preserved since the Triassic, Cretaceous, and (most famously) Jurassic periods. Slightly less known is that some of those great beasts live in an Austin nature preserve, guarding valuable trackables!

The Jurassic Travel Bug Hotel (GCANK3Y) has been entertaining cachers for a year with its whimsy. It is a melding of sturdy traditional construction with a dash of modern QR flavor. It's definitely a cache worth making time for when you visit Austin, but watch out for the great scaly beasts!

More fun at Challenge/Block Party!
Have you bought your tickets to the Texas-themed escape room?

In The Race to Liberty, you'll travel back to 1836 on the orders of Sam Houston to retrieve a letter from The Alamo. Upon your arrival, however, you are unfortunately mistaken as enemy spies and locked away. If you are able to escape your wrongful imprisonment in time, you may just be able to change history and save the Alamo!
